As I held my father's hands one night, I couldn't help but notice their calluses(老茧) and roughness(粗糙). His hands tell the story of his life as a 36, including all his struggles.

One summer, I remember, a drought(旱灾) hit Ontario, turning it into a burning desert. On one of those hot mornings I was picking sweet corn with my 37 to fill the last order from the food store. Fifty dozen (一打) was all we needed which 38 took twenty minutes. That morning, however, the process(过程) didn't go 39. After forty minutes of aimlessly walking in the field, we 40 needed twenty dozen. I was completely sad and 41. Dropping the basket heavily, I shouted, "If the store wants its last twenty dozen, they can pick it themselves!" Dad laughed, "Just think, my little girl, only ten dozen left for each of us and then we're 42." Such is Dad --- whatever problem he 43, he never gives up.

44, the very bad influence(影响) of the drought were felt all over our country. It was a challenging time for everyone, 45 Dad kept hopeful. It was then that I truly began to thank Dad for his faith that guided us through the hard times.

Dad is also a living example of real 46. From day to night he works hours and hours to 47 our family. He always puts our happiness 48 his own and never fails to cheer me up at my sports games even though he is very 49 after long days. His loving and selfless nature has encouraged me to become more helpful, putting others 50.

Dad, the life I have learned from you will stay with me forever. You are my father, teacher, friend and, most importantly, my hero.

四、阅读理解（共 15 题，每题 2 分，满分 30 分）

Last year, some groups of students in their community made a survey about “How do people spend their free time?” The following diagrams（图表）show some results of it:

Diagram (1) : Hours for people of different ages who surf the Internet in a week.

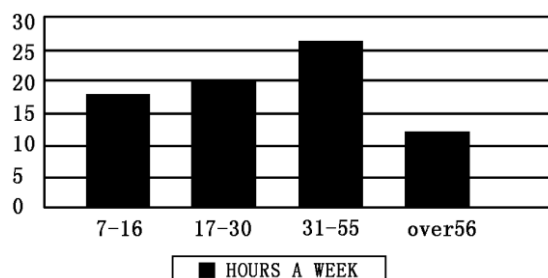

Diagram (2) : Different days people go to the library. (library attendance)

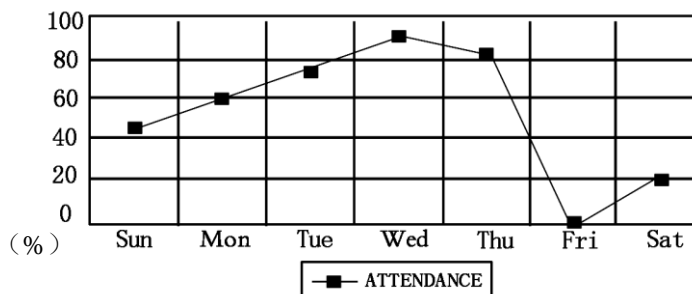

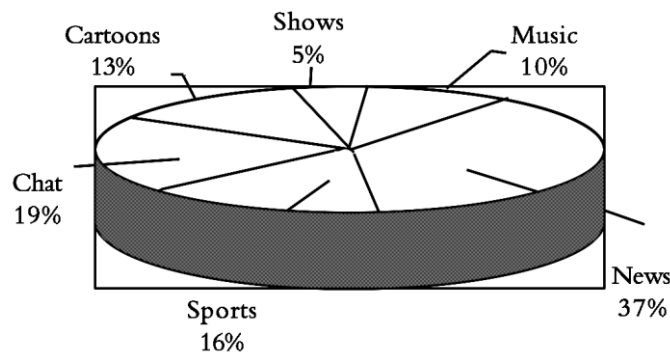

Diagram (3) : Different programs people like.

51. People aged _____ spend the least time surfing the Internet every week.
 A. 7—16 B. 17—30 C. 31—55 D. over 56
52. The word “attendance” in Diagram (2) means “_____ in the library”.
 A. the hours people spend B. the days people spend

53. Which of the following is TRUE according to the diagrams?

When I was seven years old, my family made me an ant farm (蚂蚁窝). First, we put clean sand in a thin glass box. Then we waited for the ants to arrive.

On the fifth day something terrible happened. I put my face so close to the glass farm that I knocked it over. All the tunnels fell down. Although the ants kept alive after their earthquake, one by one they began to die. I was frightened as I watched them give up building their tunnels to carry the bodies to a corner of the farm.

Although much time has passed, I still think of that ant farm. Mom had hoped it would teach me about the natural world, but it taught me much more.

But there was an even larger lesson that I did not realize until recently: Adversity (逆境) is a natural part of life. and must be accepted. Unlike the ants, we cannot give up when we are sad. We have to realize that if a tunnel is gone, we must build another.

54. Which of the following is WRONG according to the passage?

55. Among the following events, Which one happened first?

56. What did the writer come to realize a few years later?

57. What is the best title for the passage?

- A. Ants Fear Adversity
B. My Family and Ants
C. Giving Up in Adversity
D. Don't give up anytime

I was never very clean, while my roommate Kate was very organized. Each of her things had its place, but mine always hid somewhere. She even labeled (贴标签) everything. I always looked for everything. Over time, Kate got cleaner and I got messier. She would push my dirty clothing over, and I would lay my books on her tidy desk. We both got tired of each other.

The room was filled with anger. We could not have stayed together for a single minute if it hadn't been a phone call. Kate answered it. From her end of the conversation, I could tell right away her grandma was seriously ill. When she hung up, she quickly hid herself under her covers, crying. It was clear that there was something she should not go through alone. All of a sudden, a warm feeling of sympathy rose up in my heart.

Slowly, I collected the pencils, took back the books, made my bed, cleaned the socks and swept the floor, even on her side. I got so into my work that I even didn't notice Kate had sat up. She was watching, her tears dried and she could hardly believe her eyes. Then, she reached out her hands to hold mine. I looked up into her eyes. She smiled at me, "Thanks."

Kate and I stayed roommates for the rest of the year. We didn't always agree, but we learned the key to living together: giving in, cleaning up and holding on.

D

It was not long before I started my next voyage as a captain, on 7th September, 1710. The owner of the ship wanted me to sail to the Indian Ocean to do some business for him there, but I was very unlucky. On the way, I employed some new sailors from Barbados, but they were men of very bad character. I heard them whispering to the other sailors several times, but I did not suspect what they were planning. One morning, as we were sailing round the Cape of Good Hope, they attacked me and tied me up. They took control of the ship and become pirates. There was nothing I could do. I was left, alone, on the beach of a small island in the middle of the Indian Ocean.

As the ship sailed away, I had no idea where I was. I walked very quietly and carefully in case I was attacked. Then I came across a strange creature which was certainly the ugliest animal I had ever seen in all my travels.

His face showed great surprise and he lifted a foot high in the air. I did not know if he was going to attack me, but I hit him hard with my sword. He screamed so loudly that some other creatures just like him ran to help. There were about forty of them around me. I kept them away by waving my sword in the air, but their wild cries frightened me, and the horrible smell from their bodies made me feel sick.

Suddenly they all ran away. I noticed that a horse was coming along the road, so I supposed the animals were afraid of him. The horse stopped when he saw me, and seemed very surprised. He neighed(嘶鸣) several times in a very intelligent gentle way, and I almost wondered if he was speaking in his own language. When another horse came along, the two horses walked up and down together, while neighing to each other. They seemed like two important people discussing a difficult problem. I watched this with astonishment, and decided that if the animals in this country seemed so sensible, the human beings must be the most intelligent in the world.

62. What did Gulliver and his crew go sailing this time for?

- | | | | |
|-------------------|-----------------|----------------|----------------------|
| A. For travelling | B. For business | C. For science | D. For being pirates |
|-------------------|-----------------|----------------|----------------------|

63. What is true according to Paragraph 2&3?

- A. Gulliver thought the creature uglier than anything he met before.

- B. Gulliver walked on the road as if he had been on the island before.
 C. Gulliver misunderstood the creature's action and ran away at once.
 D. Gulliver was afraid of those creatures for the horrible smell from them.
64. The underlined word "astonishment" in Paragraph 4 can be replaced by _____.
 A. encouragement B. amazement C. excitement D. environment
65. How did Gulliver find these horses in the country?
 A. He found them when travelling around the small island.
 B. He found them dangerous because the strange creatures ran away.
 C. He found them the most intelligent creatures in the world.
 D. He found them surprisingly sensible as they neighed together.

To prevent the spread of the novel coronavirus(新型冠状病毒), governments at every level in China have been using many different control measures.

In heavily-affected areas, the government has chosen to lock down cities. In Hubei Province, for example, after Wuhan's lockdown on Jan 23, thirteen other cities in the province also taken lockdown measures. The decision proved effective in stopping the virus' spread at its root, China Daily said.

In some villages, people put up red banners (条幅) or used loudspeakers to educate people about the virus. Many communities also set up checkpoints to check people's temperatures, keep records of their travel history, keep non-residents (非住户) out of the community, and make sure that people quarantine (隔离) themselves after returning from high-risk areas. Some community workers also help those who stay at home by bringing in food or medicine, taking out the rubbish, and offering psychological (心理的) advice. The community workers have built the first line of defense (防御) against the virus across China.

According to Xinhua, there are millions of community workers in 650,000 urban and rural (城市和农村) communities across the country. Many people from all walks of life have volunteered to do this job. "In the face of an unexpected outbreak, it's amazing to see that China could organize people on such a large scale (规模)," Li Baoping from the Ningxia Academy of Social Sciences told Xinhua. "Great governance capacity (治理能力) at all levels gives us confidence in winning the battle."

When I was seven years old, my family made me an ant farm (蚂蚁窝). First, we put clean sand in a thin glass box. Then we waited for the ants to arrive.

After the ants were in the glass farm, they started to make tunnels. I was amazed that each one knew well what to do. Each had its own job.

On the fifth day something terrible happened. I put my face so close to the glass farm that I knocked it over. All the tunnels fell down. Although the ants kept alive after their earthquake, one by one they began to die. I was frightened as I watched them give up building their tunnels to carry the bodies to a corner of the farm.

My mother said that the ants were dying of sadness. They simply could not stand that their tunnels were gone.

Although much time has passed, I still think of that ant farm. Mom had hoped it would teach me about the natural world, but it taught me much more.

Over the years, I came to realize the importance of teamwork. Working together, the ants were able to make an amazing world for themselves. I also learned that they should be admired for their hard work.

But there was an even larger lesson that I did not realize until recently: Adversity (逆境) is a natural part of life, and must be accepted. Unlike the ants, we cannot give up when we are sad. We have to realize that if a tunnel is gone, we must build another.

Giving up is not a good choice.

54. Which of the following is WRONG according to the passage?

A. Giving up isn't a good way when we meet trouble.

B. Like people, teamwork is very important for the ants.

C. The ants didn't die one by one after the tunnels were destroyed(破坏).

D. The writer knocked the glass box over because he put his face so close to the glass farm.

55. Among the following events, Which one happened first?

A. All the tunnels fell down.

B. The ants died one by one.

C. The ants began making tunnels.

D. The ants got into the glass box.

56. What did the writer come to realize a few years later?

A. Working together is useless.

B. Teamwork is important.

C. Adversity (逆境) is a natural part of life, and must be accepted.

D. Working alone is amazing.

57. What is the best title for the passage?

A. Ants Fear Adversity

B. My Family and Ants

C. Giving Up in Adversity

D. Don't give up anytime

C

I was never very clean, while my roommate Kate was very organized. Each of her things had its place, but mine always hid somewhere. She even labeled (贴标签) everything. I always looked for everything. Over time, Kate got cleaner and I got messier. She would push my dirty clothing over, and I would lay my books on her tidy desk. We both got tired of each other.

War happened one evening. Kate came into the room. Soon, I heard her screaming, "Take your shoes away! Why under my bed!" When I saw my shoes flying at me, I jumped to my feet and started shouting. She shouted back louder.

The room was filled with anger. We could not have stayed together for a single minute if it hadn't been a phone call. Kate answered it. From her end of the conversation, I could tell right away her grandma was seriously ill. When she hung up, she quickly hid herself under her covers, crying. It was clear that there was something she should not go through alone. All of a sudden, a warm feeling of sympathy rose up in my heart.

Slowly, I collected the pencils, took back the books, made my bed, cleaned the socks and swept the floor, even on her side. I got so into my work that I even didn't notice Kate had sat up. She was watching, her tears dried and she could hardly believe her eyes. Then, she reached out her hands to hold mine. I looked up into her eyes. She smiled at me, "Thanks."

Kate and I stayed roommates for the rest of the year. We didn't always agree, but we learned the key to living together: giving in, cleaning up and holding on.

58. What made Kate so angry one evening?

- A. She couldn't find her books. B. She heard me shouting loud.
C. She got the news that her grandma was ill. D. She saw my shoes under her bed.

59. The writer tidied up the room most probably because_____.

- A. she was scared by Kate's anger B. she hated herself for being so messy
C. she wanted to show her care D. she was asked by Kate to do so

60. How is Paragraph 1 mainly developed?

- A. By giving the main idea B. By showing differences.
C. By describing a process D. By following time order.

61. What might be the best title for the story?

- A. My Friend Kate B. Hard Work Pays Off
C. How to Be Organized D. Learning to Be Roommates

It was not long before I started my next voyage as a captain, on 7th September, 1710. The owner of the ship wanted me to sail to the Indian Ocean to do some business for him there, but I was very unlucky. On the way, I employed some new sailors from Barbados, but they were men of very bad character. I heard them whispering to the other sailors several times, but I did not suspect what they were planning. One morning, as we were sailing round the Cape of Good Hope, they attacked me and tied me up. They took control of the ship and become pirates. There was nothing I could do. I was left, alone, on the beach of a small island in the middle of the Indian Ocean.

As the ship sailed away, I had no idea where I was. I walked very quietly and carefully in case I was attacked. Then I came across a strange creature which was certainly the ugliest animal I had ever seen in all my travels.

His face showed great surprise and he lifted a foot high in the air. I did not know if he was going to attack me, but I hit him hard with my sword. He screamed so loudly that some other creatures just like him ran to help. There were about forty of them around me. I kept them away by waving my sword in the air, but their wild cries frightened me, and the horrible smell from their bodies made me feel sick.

Suddenly they all ran away. I noticed that a horse was coming along the road, so I supposed the animals were afraid of him. The horse stopped when he saw me, and seemed very surprised. He neighed(嘶鸣) several times in a very intelligent gentle way, and I almost wondered if he was speaking in his own language. When another horse came along, the two horses walked up and down together, while neighing to each other. They seemed like two important people discussing a difficult problem. I watched this with astonishment, and decided that if the animals in this country seemed so sensible, the human beings must be the most intelligent in the world.

62. What did Gulliver and his crew go sailing this time for?

- A. For travelling B. For business C. For science D. For being pirates

63. What is true according to Paragraph 2&3?

- A. Gulliver thought the creature uglier than anything he met before.

- B. Gulliver walked on the road as if he had been on the island before.
 C. Gulliver misunderstood the creature's action and ran away at once.
 D. Gulliver was afraid of those creatures for the horrible smell from them.
64. The underlined word "astonishment" in Paragraph 4 can be replaced by _____.
 A. encouragement B. amazement C. excitement D. environment
65. How did Gulliver find these horses in the country?
 A. He found them when travelling around the small island.
 B. He found them dangerous because the strange creatures ran away.
 C. He found them the most intelligent creatures in the world.
 D. He found them surprisingly sensible as they neighed together.

Last week, we held a class meeting. In the meeting, we talked about how to spend the holiday meaningfully.

We had a discussion about whether to shorten the summer and winter vacations and add the spring and autumn vacations last week.

In the past, I liked playing games and watching TV took up most of their spare time. Now, I like reading and traveling.

Some students think that the present terms are too long and we often get bored without a good rest. Besides, nature provides us with more beautiful views in spring and autumn. It is really a good chance for us to go out and enjoy the beauty. Travelling can make us understand the world, enjoy the beauty of nature, and relax the body and mind. The benefits of reading are acquiring knowledge, making people happy, opening up a new world, and enriching our lives.

In a word, I love travelling and reading.

本文是一篇给材料作文。根据表格中的提示内容，结合你自己对此事的看法，用英语给校报写一篇短文。文章时态用一般过去时，人称主要为第一人称。本文所给材料比较详细，考生要做的就是用正确的英语把这些内容表达出来。动笔前要认真阅读材料，不可遗漏要点，并可适当发挥。在写作时，注意紧扣主题，连句成篇，要层次清楚，要点分明，中心突出。同时要注意语言的表述应该符合语法的结构，造句应该符合英语的表达习惯；尽量使用自己熟悉的单词句式，最好不要写太长的复合句；尽量选取简单的易拼写的单词，确保正确率；词汇、句式要丰富多样，可以为文章增色添彩。最后要细心复核检查，确保正确无误。
